Gabriella Zoia (International Relations, 2015)
- Research Fellow
- Full-time, 50 hours per week
- Paid

What do you do as an intern at this organization?
I work with all three flagship programs at the Hague Institute. For research, I contribute to everything from fact checking and writing my own background paper in conjunction with colleagues. I work on project management to ensure that conferences and trainings run smoothly. I'm also responsible for maintaining the social media presence of the Institute.

How did you find your internship?
I found the internship through a recent partnership between the Institute for Global Justice and The Hague Institute.

What do you enjoy most about your internship?
I enjoy working in a vibrant environment with extremely dedicated and intelligent people. Everybody at the Institute contributes a tremendous wealth of knowledge and form a cohesive team.

What do you find challenging?
Clear learning curve to learn protocols, doctrines, and events that have shaped the network in which they operate in.

What advice would you offer to someone who wants to make the most of an internship like yours?
I wrote down everything that I didn't know and would research it at night to learn more. It paid off because I significantly reduced the gap in my knowledge and this allowed me to effectively contribute to research initiatives.

About the Organization
The Hague Institute for Global Justice
The Hague, Netherlands

The Hague Institute for Global Justice is an independent, nonpartisan organization established to conduct interdisciplinary policy-relevant research, develop practitioner tools, and convene experts, practitioners and policymakers to facilitate knowledge sharing. Through this work the Institute aims to contribute to, and further strengthen, the global framework for preventing and resolving conflict and promoting international peace.